THE HUMPBACK WHALE.

Most Desperate and Dangerous of All Marine Monsters. A "whale factory" is always located in some scantily populated seacoast harbor, for the odors that rise from the chimneys when a whale is being tried out would speedily arouse an urban population to mob violence. The steamer is a stout little craft of 100 tons' burden, capable of making twelve knots an hour, and is strongly built and braced to enable it to withstand a chance blow from the mighty flukes of a maddened leviathan. Usually a single shot from the harpoon gun results in speedy death, but occasionally when the weapon fails to strike a vital point, the frenzied monster will career wildly about the ocean for hours, dragging the ship, with engines reversed, over the water like a cork.

Most desperate and dangerous of all marine monsters is the humpback whale. When wounded, the humpback will charge the ship and attempt to destroy it, there being a case on record where a small Norwegian whaler was sunk and all hands lost in such an encounter, while another steamer had a narrow escape from a similar fate in Newfoundland waters.

On one occasion an unusually powerful bull humpback, harpooned in a novelties spot, towed a whaler for twenty-six hours around Placentia bay, doubling back and charging the ship repeatedly and requiring three harpoons to dispatch it. Another time a humpback made a fourteen hour fight against a whaler off Cape Race, the ship's winch being demolished by the furious tugs the creature made as it tried to rid itself of the harpoon. A third instance was where a whaler, having shot one "fish" just before sundown, transfixed another soon afterward and spent the whole night in a most perilous fight with his two victims, whose diverse movements frequently threatened to overturn the vessel.

When a whale is harpooned he usually "sounds," or dives downward until he can go no farther. The rope attached to the harpoon is drawn out through the ship's hawse pipe so fast that the chafing causes the woodwork to smoke, and it has to be sluiced with seawater at intervals to prevent combustion. The wounded monster next bounds upward and projects himself clear out of the sea, bellowing madly the while and falling back into the brine with a noise resembling thunder. Then he races off furiously over the ocean, towing the ship behind and diving or rising at intervals until exhausted, when the whaler can approach and finish him. A full grown fish, if not vitally hit, can tow the ship for hours and may even require a second shot to give him his quietus. This, and shot after shot often done by launching a boat with two or three men, who row up to the spent victim and pierce him to the heart with a thrust from a sharp spear, when he sends up a last spout of spray and blood and expires.—Technical World.

Precocious. They must have some very delightful little girls in England, to judge by the anecdotes about them that creep into the press from time to time. Here is one of a six-year-old which the Gentlemen's Magazine with enjoyment: "She was riding with her aunt outside one of the Hastings electric trams. As it was proceeding at a rather good pace down a steep declivity the aunt was obviously a little nervous. The child, observing this, looked up sweetly into her aunt's face and said: 'Are you frightened, auntie? Because you can take hold of my hand if you are.' On another occasion this little girl's grandmother had the misfortune to have the leg of the sofa on which she was reclining give way, and although it was repaired, it gave way a second time. Thereupon a chair sufficiently firm to support the aged and rather infirm woman was bought, a fact which her grandchild remembered in her prayers that evening as follows: 'I thank thee, good Lord, for having at last found a chair that my dear grand-mother can sit down upon.'"

How to Help Yourself. Some time ago the head of a large wholesale shoe business was in need of an advertising manager. If he had followed the usual practice he would have gone outside the house and hired a professional "ad. manager." But he had a notion that the man who knew enough about salesmanship and about his special goods to sell them on the road could "make sentiment" for those same goods by the use of printers' ink. Therefore he put one of his crack salesmen into the position and now pays him $5,000 a year. And the man has "made good" in great shape.

Nor does this merchant stop with promoting men from the ranks of his organization. If a salesman in his house makes a good showing he fastens him to the firm still tighter by selling to him shares of good dividend-paying stock.

He knows one thing that too few men in business do know—That a man can best help himself by helping others.—Saturday Evening Post.

Lies In Dress Labels. One may purchase in New York a gown apparently made by any one of a dozen celebrated French dressmakers—at any rate, it will bear the name and address of the Paris house on its waistband—which was made entire on this side the water. Years ago a few of the noted Paris dressmakers sold their waistbands to foreign makers of the other famous houses found that makers in other cities were counterfeiting their waistband marks. Deciding to reap some benefit from what they could not prevent, they began selling marked waistbands to be attached to dresses made in London, New York and elsewhere.

FIGHTING FISH.

Peculiar Animals That Are Found Only In Siamese Waters.

A favorite recreation in Siam is watching the fighting fish, a species of fish found in the waters of no other country. The fish cannot live in unity, and if two are placed in a bowl they will instantly engage in a struggle "to the death."

It is no unusual thing to see in the streets of Siam crowds of natives chattering and gesticulating around a bowl containing a number of these fish, which they bet on in the same way as more civilized people do on race horses. Intense excitement reigns among the natives as they watch the fish fighting within the bowl.

These peculiarly quarrelsome fish are very similar to the common pike in appearance, with the exception that they are not in the possession of gills. Their fins, too, are remarkably sharp, and these they use with terrible effect upon one another. Blood oozes from their sides, and yet they persist in fighting until perhaps only two are left alive, and then the survivors turn on one another until only one is left out of perhaps a dozen placed in the tub.

Although the fighting fish are exceptionally good to eat, the majority of natives esteem them only for their fighting propensities, which affords them amusement and excitement every day.

London's Last Public Hanging. The gruesome spectacle of a public execution in England is happily a thing of the past. The scaffold used to be erected in the roadway outside the prison, and crowds would assemble to witness the sight, the last time a man was hanged in public being when Michael Barrett suffered the extreme penalty in May, 1888, in Old Bailey, outside Newgate prison, for exploding a cask of gunpowder under the walls of Clerkenwell prison to release the Fenian prisoners Burke and Casey, a mad act that killed several and injured still more.—London Graphic.

Why He Liked It. "Do you mean to tell me that you have lived in this out of the way place for ten years?" "That's right, stranger. Just ten years."

"I'm surprised. I can't see what you find here to keep you busy." "I can't find anything. That's the reason I like it."—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Only In Chemistry. Tommy-Paw, doesn't precipitation mean the same as settling? Mr. Figg—It does in chemistry, but in business you'll find that most men in settling don't show any precipitation at all.

Every one of us, whatever our speculative opinions, knows better than he practices and recognizes a better law than he obeys.—Froude.

PUBLIC IMPROVEMENTS.

Money Wisely Expended Is Safely and Profitably Expended.

Beautiful utility is never too costly. Over and over again the cost benefits of public improvements have been proved, defined, established. It is true of public betterment of a sanitary character, it is true of public betterment that look to commercial advancement; it is true of public betterment that have primarily an art value. The practical and the ornamental betterment are alike in this—that money wisely expended for good purposes is safely and profitably invested.

The limitations of expenditures for civic betterment are of course very obvious. The work undertaken must be good in itself and serve some good purpose. Money expended for a worthless filtration plant, for example, is money spent for bad art is not always considered as so completely lost as money that might be wasted for worthless sanitary apparatus. The statue causes no ill health and may be avoided by passing down the next street, while an impure water supply brings death and destruction to many helpless persons.—Homes and Garden.

WEAK WEARY WOMEN

Learn the Cause of Daily Woes and End Them.

When the back aches and throbs. When housework is torture. When night brings no rest nor sleep.

When urinary disorders set in. Women's lot is a weary one. There is a way to escape these woes. Doan's Kidney Pills cure such ills. Have cured women here in Clarksburg.

This is one Clarksburg woman's testimony: Mrs. E. P. W. Waldeck, E. P. W. Waldeck, carpenter, of 117 Chestnut street, says: "A dull aching pain across the small of my back which annoyed me with its very persistency, clung to me for years. If I stopped or overexerted myself in any way sharp twinges followed. At times I have been so lame and sore across the small of the back that I could not lie on it, and I have been so afraid to turn in bed because of the stitches catching me that to lie in any one position actually kept me awake despite the fact that I was continually taking medicine. It is the recollection of the above facts which makes me so emphatically endorse the means I employed at last to get relief. I want to Wall's & Haymaker's drug store for Doan's Kidney Pills. The treatment went to the cause of the trouble and finally removed it. Doan's Kidney Pills certainly carry out the claims made for them."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no substitute.
